

6302 (Formerly 7303) Level 3 award in Preparing to Teach in the Lifelong Learning Sector and First Aid Instructors Course

This course is designed to enable those with solid medical/first aid backgrounds to train and assess Health and Safety Executive (HSE) approved First Aid courses. 6302/PTLLS is the starting point for anyone involved in the delivery of learning, the course is part of the National Qualifications Framework and is set at Level 3. This combined with the First Aid Instructors (FAI) course provides the necessary training qualifications to deliver First Aid training within the workplace. The course is in line with the current First Aid Approvals and Monitoring Section, of the HSE, guidelines.

What are the course outcomes?

This programme is designed to enable delegates to:-

Adopt an integrative approach to the theory and practice of teaching and training

Reflect on their own previous/current levels of experience, practice and skills, and potential for development

Build up knowledge of principles of learning, teaching, assessment and evaluation

Develop their own communication and interpersonal skills

Develop an awareness of their professional role, the essential value systems which underpin it and the legal requirements for carrying out that role

In addition students will receive training and advice in delivering and assessing First Aid courses. Students will also deliver a minimum of one practical and one theory session each in the course of the week. These will be assessed, and feedback given to the potential instructor, by a senior member of Aid Training.

On successful completion and by holding an in date First Aid at Work certificate or being exempt* students will be qualified to train and assess First Aid courses for HSE Registered companies. In addition they will be able to run courses such as Emergency First Aid-that don't at present require HSE approval without any external help. It is important to understand that it is the "company" and not the "individual" that holds HSE approval-there is no such thing as a "HSE Approved First Aid Instructor".

*Includes Registered General Nurse, Doctor or State Registered Paramedic.

7303 Level 3 award in Preparing to Teach in the Lifelong Learning Sector and First Aid Instructors Course - continued

What are the entry requirements?

There is no "hands-on" first aid taught on this course-candidates must have a strong first aid/medical background before considering this course. Candidates wishing to use the course to train HSE approved First Aid at Work (FAW) courses must be in possession of a valid FAW certificate, or equivalent unless exempt, at the start of the course. Those who don't meet this criteria should consider the combined First Aid and AED Instructors course.

How long is the course?

The combined course is run as six straight days with evening work as well

How will I be assessed?

The course is assessed by completing a series of assignments and four micro-teaching sessions

Under current HSE guidance those training First Aid at Work must meet, as a minimum, the following criteria

Current, in date FAW certificate unless current Registered General Nurse, Medical Practitioner or State Registered Paramedic

Training qualification and/or experience

Background in first aid within the workplace

How much does it cost?
